

"I am kneeling for everyone who has been beaten, killed, and/or worse by this unfair system that has permeated our collective culture and economic strata. I am sure there are many others who have done similar statements with more succinctness and pathos, but I would like to add my own statement on kneeling because it is what I feel. I don't kneel for the corruption and prejudices present in the upper strata, but for the people below getting repaid for their efforts and struggles with suffering and apathy."
